The Widow's Mite

I saw this during the second loan. She was a little old lady. Her face was like a frost-bitten apple. Her eyes were bright. She came into the bank rather timidly. The marble, the flashing brass grille, the bustle, these things troubled her.

She carried a handbag. It was old and worn. She didn't know where to go exactly. But an attendant noticed her and saw her indecision.

"I want to buy a bond," she said, smiling.

Ah, if you could have seen those bills! Ones, twos, fives, almost ready to fall apart. The privations, the self-denials back of those crumpled bank notes!

They gave her her bond. It had a pleasant crinkling sound as she folded it and stuffed it into the old handbag. Then her eyes became hazy. I knew what she was thinking of. The boy over there. God bless her! It wasn't enough that she should give of her flesh and blood. She must have her bond. I know she was reviewing that boy's whole life, from the swaddling clothes to the sinister khaki. In the old days she had picked him up and kissed his hurts. But he was three thousand miles beyond her tender kisses now. Blood of her blood, bone of her bone.

She might have to go without her tea. No matter. She was fighting alongside her boy now. Nothing could rob her of that wonderful feeling. She had not only given him to his country, she had helped to arm him!

Bonds to arm with, to keep them warm, to feed them.

It's up to you and me, neighbor!

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

I am compelled to insist on the more prompt payment of the bills that are due me by my customers. I appreciate your patronage, my dear friends, but I can't wait forever on the pay. Please do me the kindness to call at your very earliest moment and let me receipt your bill. This means you if you owe me. Henry C. Anderson. 81-1f

BRONCHIAL TROUBLE

Mrs. A. E. Sidenberder, Rockfield, Ind., states: "For an attack of bron-chial trouble which usually assails me in the spring I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the only thing that gives me relief. After using it for a few days all signs of bronchial trouble disappear."

FEARFUL "FLU" STILL RAGING

The sweeping order made by John G. South, president of the State Board of Health, ordering all schools, theaters, churches, picture shows and all other places of public assembly closed on account of the Spanish influenza, which continues to rage, is being adhered to the letter here. The Stanford Graded and High School was closed Monday afternoon and all the schools in the county will close their doors just as soon as the order can reach them. All of the appoint-ments to speak in the Liberty Loan campaign have been cancelled, the churches will not open their doors for any kind of service, Manager Owens, of the opera house, says his Temple of Thespies will be dark until the "flu" is gotten under control, and every other gathering of people that requires them to get together in doors will be abolished. Our people have not obeyed the order without a murmur, although on some of them it will work a decided hardship. They should be and are willing to make almost any sacrifice to aid in stopping the spread of the dread epidemic, for they know that the quicker it is combatted the fewer the lives of the people here, in camp and elsewhere will be exposed to the disease, which many of the physicians agree is only a malignant form of influenza. It is an infectious disease, they say, and the safest and quickest way to stop its spread is to avoid crowds of all kinds. A great many of the gallant boys who are in training for service over there have died from influenza, the toll of Camp Zachary Taylor alone being nearly 200. Use every precautionary mea-sure in helping to stamp out the dis-ease which is proving so costly to human life and stand like a man any little privation or hardship the order of the State Board of Health may impose on you. In fine, be as patriotic in your effort to stop its spread as you have been in having bonds, stamps and contributing to the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other such splendid funds and all will be well. The length of time it will be neces-sary to keep the schools and the pub-lic places closed will greatly depend on the effort made in trying to stop the spread of the fearful "flu."

"A BOND IN EVERY HOME"

"A Bond in Every Home" is a slogan that sounds good and which should be a reality before the Fourth Liberty Bond drive has become history. In order to have "a bond in every home" a committee of gentle-men will gather here at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening, Oct. 10th, and will be assigned to various sections of the county in order to spend the whole day selling Liberty Bonds. It is hoped that the gentlemen will bring cars so that they may be used in the noble work and that those who are not the fortunate owners of an auto and who may want to put in the day may be given the opportunity of doing so: R. L. Hubble, J. C. Eubanks, Tom Phillips, T. D. Roney, R. M. Newland, W. M. Bright, J. S. Hocker, George DeBorde, T. A. Rice, T. J. Hill, Jr., Foster, J. H. Wonds, R. M. Blackberry, James W. Williams, James N. Cash, E. T. Pence, J. W. B. McKinnel, H. C. Anderson, W. H. Shanks, W. M. Matheny, Charles W. Lovell, J. W. Rochester, Wm. Landgraf, W. O. Walker, W. M. Gooch, John B. Dinwiddie, William McCormack, J. C. Bailey, Marshall C. Newland, T. D. Newland, B. W. Givens, William Severance, T. W. Jones, E. R. Campbell, W. B. Hill, Kelly J. Francis, and as many others who may feel that they want to give a day to help fight the loath. The cancell-ing of speaking dates makes it neces-sary to call on the people in their homes. The bonds must be sold and this is about the only way to reach those who live out of town. Help the gentlemen who are trying to help end the war by raising money for its maintenance, by not only buying a bond when they call on you, but go with them and try and induce your neighbors to buy. Let there be "A Bond in Every Home" and all will be well.

STANLEY CHATS WITH WILSON

A Washington City dispatch says: Gov. Stanley had a conference of half an hour with President Wilson, at which the Kentucky political situa-tion was gone over thoroughly. The President showed the keenest interest in Gov. Stanley's campaign for the Senate. His respects, and intended staying his respects, and intended staying but a few minutes, but the President appeared so anxious to hear all about conditions in Kentucky that the call lasted far beyond the time originally allotted. During the morning Gov. Stanley called on Senators Beckham and Martin and members of the Kentucky delegation. He talked over with them the prospects of prominent dem-ocrats coming to Kentucky for the campaign, and found that many are ready to speak in his behalf.

SINCERE GRATITUDE

Mrs. William Bell, Logansport, Ind., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my gratitude for the good Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy when I had a severe at-tack of diarrhoea three years ago. It was the only medicine that reliev-ed me."

THE LATE M. D. ELMORE

Stanford's oldest merchant and one of her staunchest and best citi-zens died when Mr. Moses D. El-more breathed his last at 3:30 Sat-urday afternoon. He had been ill a long time and for months it had been known that his recovery was next to impossible. While drooping was his chief trouble, he had many other af-flictions, that would have carried off even a younger or more robust gen-tleman. He was born in the county on August 16, 1828, and hence was over 80 years of age. He began his business career in Stanford 55 years ago in the storehouse where he did business as long as he could at-tend to it. He occupied that store-room all those years with the ex-ception of a few, when he moved to the room two doors west, now oc-cupied by O. P. Huffman. His suc-cessful career of business, but he took good care of what he did and never did mortal sins have en-joyed who stuck closer to him. Many of them would not trade elsewhere, and when they came to town, El-more's store was their headquarters. It was said of some of his patrons that if he failed to have certain ar-ticles they wanted, they would do without them until he got a supply. Not only was Mr. Elmore Stanford's oldest merchant, but he was also its largest owner of town property. He had a half dozen or more store-rooms besides those in the Elmore Block, while he owned nearly a dozen res-idences of various kinds. Forty-nine years ago he married Miss Mollie Trotter, who survives him. A child was born to them but it died in its infancy. Mrs. J. M. Westerfield, who was Miss Nannie Marrs, a niece of Mrs. Elmore, was raised by them and she was loved by the deceased with the devotion as great as had she been his own daughter. Mr. Elmore was a scrupulously honest man and he did right as he saw right. He was a regular attendant at the services of one or the other of the churches here, but not until a month or so ago did he unite with one of them. He was baptized into the Presbyterian church, the church of his wife, by Dr. P. L. Bruce. For some 25 years he had been a director of the First National Bank and was one of its first stockholders. That institution closed Monday afternoon during his funeral out of respect for him who had been one of its best friends in the years that had gone by. Deceased was the last surviving mem-ber of a large family. His brothers and sisters who preceded him to the grave are: Newell Elmore, Shirley Elmore, Menefee Elmore and Matt Elmore, and Mrs. F. G. Brady, mother of Mr. W. H. Brady, Mrs. Nailor and Mrs. Parslev. A number

GOT 40 QUARTS OF BOOZE

The fellow who "gets by" Chief of Police George T. Wood and Deputy Sheriff R. T. Lewis with booze can count himself an exception, even if he is not a lucky person in the achievement. Saturday night, or to be more correct, Sunday morning, the two gentlemen were standing on the corner near Salem & Salem's new store casting their eyes wind-ward, when five men in an auto drove up and inquired the road to Crab Orchard. They were given the infor-mation and drove off. Mr. Wood saw that one of the four tires that were tied on behind the machine was drag-ging and he called to the men to stop and fix the reserve tire, or they would lose it. They stopped and on being asked what they had in the machine the officers were told that it was filled with groceries and dry goods. "I expect we had better make a search of the car," remarked Mr. Wood and he and Mr. Lewis got busy. Forty quarts of booze was the dis-covery they made. The stuff was con-fiscated and the four men fined $50 each and placed in jail in default of the payment of the fine. They re-mained in hoc until late Sunday after-noon when a message from the New Trosner Coal Co., in Knox county, asked the release of the men, saying a check for $200 was forth-coming. They were turned loose and went their way rejoicing. The men, who are coal miners for the above concern, went to Lebanon on the train and had secured the auto to go home in a distance of 115 miles, paying $40 for the car. They knew they could not carry all the booze on the train so they tried the auto route, but were picked up in that. They gave their names as Rhodes, Henke, Blakely and John-son, but whether or not they are real or fictitious, may never be known by the officers here. It was a costly trip for the bunch but the experi-ence may prove valuable to them, and it is certain that they will not again attempt to smuggle whisky through Stanford as long as Messrs. Wood and Lewis are on the job. The driver of the car was permitted to go back to Lebanon, but it is not improbable that a writ will be issued for him on the charge of hauling whisky into dry territory.

SUNDAY MORNING FIRE

Just before Sunday school time Sunday the home of Mrs. G. B. Cooper was discovered on fire and in a reasonably short while the fire lad-dies arrived on the scene. Neighbors had gathered, however, and had the flames so well under control that it was not necessary to turn the water on the building. Sparks from the cook stove had set fire to the shingle roof on the kitchen and had not the blaze been discovered in time the pretty home would have gone up in flames. The property was insured and the insurance company will repair the damages, which are not great.

Fortunately for Mrs. Cooper, she had an insurance policy. See Jesse D. Wearen today and get you one. No property owner can get along well without carrying a policy on his home.

of nephews and nieces and the good wife are left to mourn the loss of the splendid man. He will be missed in Stanford where he was always in-terested in everything that was for the betterment of the town, and where he had been a familiar figure for generations. His death is a loss that will be felt by many, but the wife who stood by his side through all those long years, will miss him most and to her every heart in this community goes out in sympathy. May a good God give her strength to bear her irreparable loss and cause her to again feel that her loss is his eternal gain. The burial took place in Buffalo Cemetery Monday after-noon after an appropriate funeral discourse at the late home by Dr. Bruce, of the Presbyterian church.

SENATOR JAMES B. MCCREARY

Senator James B. McCreary, whose illness was reported in Monday's pa-pers, died at his home in Richmond at 6 o'clock this morning. He was stricken Saturday morning and his death is believed to be due to a kid-ney trouble. Speaker of the House at Frankfort for two terms, elected governor in 1875, and again in 1911, 12 years in Congress and six in the United States Senate, he was faithful to every trust and during all of his tenure of office there was never a charge against him. He was one of Kentucky's foremost citizens and the mourns today because he is no more. Mrs. McCreary died a dozen years ago but one son, Robert McCreary, of Chicago, survives the good and grand old man, who had remained on earth over four score years and whose work to make Kentucky big-ger and better will not be forgotten by the thousands who today sorrow because he has gone from them.

KINGS MOUNTAIN-WAYNESBURG

I will be at Kings Mountain next Saturday morning, Oct. 12th, from 9 until 1 o'clock for the purpose of col-lecting your taxes. I will go from there and be at Waynesburg from 1:30 until 4 to wait on all those who wish to get their tax receipts. Be on hand ready to settle with me, please. H. C. Baughman, sheriff. 1f

DAN TRAYLOR SELLS FARM

Dan Traylor has sold his farm again. This makes the third time he has disposed of his good place on Logan's Creek and each time he has made a nice profit. The buyer this time is E. S. Cowan, of Pulaski coun-ty, and he is said to have paid a "stiff" price. Hughes & McCarty, Stanford's hustling real estate men, made the deal.

EARLES BUYS ELLIS FARM

Hughes & McCarty, the Stanford real estate hustlers, have sold to W. T. Earles, of Middleburg, for Joe Ellis, his farm of 300 acres between Middleburg and Yosemite, for a sum said to be close to $20,000. The place is known as the Godfrey farm and is one of the very best in Casey county.

JUDGE RICE'S SALE TOMORROW

Look on the second page of this paper and read the sale advertise-ment of Judge T. A. Rice, and to-morrow, Wednesday, go out and buy some of the live stock he will dispose of. A splendid lot of live stock of all kinds will be sold.

A PRISONER OF WAR

A Washington dispatch says that Archie Popplewell, of Hustonville, has been taken as a prisoner of war by the Germans. He is from the Kidd's Store section, near the Casey line.

Brig. Gen. Charles A. Doyen, com-mandant of the Marine Training Corps at Quantico, Va., died of influ-enza.

TO THE CITIZENS OF LINCOLN COUNTY:

Your quota of the Fourth Liberty Loan is $338,350. About $158,000 of this amount has been purchased, leaving a shortage of about $180,350. Before a subscription is complete it must be made in writing on blanks furnished by the Government for that purpose. Many who have verbally subscribed have failed to sign the blanks. They and all who expect to subscribe are urged to go to the banks of their choice at once and complete their subscriptions by signing the blanks, which may be found at any bank. If the amount needed to prosecute the war can not be raised by selling the best securities on earth bearing a good rate of interest until paid, it will be raised by di-rect taxation, no part of which will be returned. Let's have no slack-ers, but let every person in the county, regardless of age, sex, or color, do his or her whole duty and the needed amount will be easily raised. Any bank in the county will lend money on six months' time to buy bonds at the same rate of interest that the bonds bear.

Thanking you in advance for prompt action we are,

Respectfully,

J. S. HOCKER, Chairman,

W. H. SHANKS, Assistant Chairman.
